Race News

January 29 – Long Course

Twenty-four racers signed up for the first race of a possibly very short 2006 season. Due to the uncertainty about the future availability of Hawaii Raceway Park, the HRRRA scheduled a one heat race to coincide with the January 29th track day.

Unfortunately, the races were canceled due to a dust storm created by users of the oval dirt track across the front straight, who laid a film of dirt over turn one. HRRRA director Kim Nakashima considered the conditions too dangerous for racing and called the races. The remainder of the day was turned into a short course track day, including running in the reverse direction.

With the remainder of the 2006 season in jeopardy, the March race is likely to be a “winner take all” shootout. You had better be there!
